

A ghostly figure contemplates the start of a new aurora display while looking down a closed side road at Prelude Lake. These side roads service the summer campsites.

